THE SILVER QUESTION.

A very common assertion of the mono-metllists is that the bi-metallists are largely composed of the debter class, who hope by the introduction of the double standard to fifteen or sixteen shillings to the pound. The assertion is absurd, because, in the first place, the agitation for the rehabilitation of silver is carried on by a few able men who certainly cannot be described as belongling to the debtor class, and, in the second place, because the great bulk of the population, including the debtor-class, have not as yet awakened to any general interest in the subject. DOWNING STREET, 19th May, 1886. SIR,-With reference to the letter from this Department, of the 6th of February last, I am large piece of her bottom out, and it was found directed by Earl Granville to transmit to you. for the information of Mr. Secretary Cumpbell Bannerman, the enclosed despatch from the Officer Administering the Government of Hongin that Colony.

I am to state that Lord Granville thinks that the Colonial Government have behaved with great patriotism and liberality in voting the very large sum of £116,000 for the construction of the fortifications designed to receive the Armament, which will be supplied at the cost of Imperial Funds.

His Lordship feels sure that Mr. Campbell Bannerman will agree with him that it will not be possible to ask the Colony to vote any further sums on account of these particular works; he trusts therefore that directions will be given to the officers charged with the expenditure to see that the sum voted is not exceeded, making reductions if necessary in order to ensure the desired object.

I am to request the return of the despatch which is enclosed in original.—I am, &c., R.H. MEADE.

As it was, a letter which I have caused to be addressed to there was a heavy, constant ground swel which caused the vessel to work badly on the rest. In addition to this the natives struction of the authorized works. -I have &c., of the island formed a constant source of anxiety. They came out in swarms of boats and hovered round the vessel, and it was feared they would board her for loot: happily, however, they did not do so, but simply waited for the crew to leave, or for whatever might be washed from the wreck. For three days the steamer continued to keep above water, but by that time her working on the coral had cut necessary to take to the boats. Previously to this, as a measure of precaution, al the clothes and personal effects of those on board were put into the boats, which were in the water, provisioned and all in readiness to leave the vessel at any time they might be required. After the officers and crew took to the boats they lay a short distance off the wreck, which was then submerged along up to the top of her bulwarks. They lay off her for about five hours, when the Spanish gunboat bearing the captain and his party hove insight to the great relief of themall The gunboat conveyed them all, to Balabac Naval Station, and after remaining there about a week they were taken on to Manila by the Spanish transport Sa : Quintin. They remained in Manila a week or so, and came on here in the Diamante. The Spanish officials sent a gunboat to stand by the wreck and protect it from looting by the natives. The officers and crew are all here now, and are increfortunate than the majority of shipwrecked m ciners in being still in possession of all their personal effects. There was no possibility of saving any cargo or other property from the wreck. ____.

SUPREME COURT

1st July. IN BANKRUPTCY

Before the Hon. James Russell, Acting CHIEF JUSTICE. IN RE JAMESON AND CROKER. This was an application for adjudication made by Mr. Chun Yee Kai, one of the creditors. Mr. Webber appeared for the petitioning creditor and said that a petition was filed in the first instance by Messra, Jameson and Croker themselves. After that they had to file their schedule, and his Lordship was pleased to grant an extension of time for that purpose, but owing to the books being in the hands of an auditor, and the auditor claiming a lien on them, they could not get them. The creditors were pressing, and the premises being closed, one of the creditors came in and filed a petition. In support of the petition he would state that the debters had closed their place of business, with a view to evade payment prescribed manner and form a declaration of their inability to pay their debts. Both these things were acts of bankruptcy. His Lordship said he would make an order but it appeared one of the bankrupts (Mr. Jameson) was not present.

of their debts, and that they had filed in the

Mr. Webber said be was acting also on behalf of the debtors, and he would ask his Lordship. to fix the soonest possible time for them to show cause on the order, say seven days.

His Lordship assented to this. Mr. Webber said he believed Mr. Gourdin was present and wanted to say something. Mr. Gourdin said he would ask permission to make a few remarks. Some time about the middle of April the firm of Jameson and Croker called a meeting of their creditors and laid before them a statement of accounts. The creditors declined to receive these accounts; they said they were incorrect.

His Lordship asked Mr. Goardin what his object was in making these remarks. Mr. Gourdin said he had been auditing the books on behalf of the creditors, who had lodged them with him for the purpose of enabling them to arrive at a correct statement of accounts. He had been engaged on them for fifty-four days, and the work had been much more than an andit as he had had to correct the books since 1884, when the firm first started, and make new entries in them covering seventeen or eighteen pages of foolscap, so as to enable the oreditors to receive the accounts. He had sent in his bill. and the oreditors demurred to paying it, and one of the creditors had petitioned to have the firm to a correct statement, and without it they would never have been able to do so. His Lordship said that might be very hard or Mr. Gourdin, but the Ordinance was imperative that no person could detain the books or property of a bankrupt or claim any lien thereon. He thought Mr. Gourdin had a very fair claim, but he did not see how he could upset that section of the Ordinance. If the creditors asked for the books without paying the account for auditing them he thought Mr. Gourdin would be obliged to give them up, but he should certainly have thought the creditors would have paid him.

Mr. Webber said he thought in justice to Messrs. Jameson and Croker it ought to be stated that they had nothing to do with this. His Lordship-He says it is the creditors.

Mr. Webber-I have paid Mr. Gourdin for the creditors for whom I act. Mr. Gourdin-Some of the creditors have paid. I have received $255. I believe there is one (pointing to a person in court) who has been assessed at $6.25, and he declines to pay. Нолеково, July 8тн. 1996. Ten crime of kidnapping has always been

Tuesday, the 6th-inst. common in China, and its repression bas proved a very difficult matter, in spite of the l neverity with which it has usually been punished. In this Colony, as is well known, and in Singapore markets exist unfortunately for the disposal of women and children, and all the efforts of the local Governments have proved inefficient to put a complete stop-tothe traffic. Given a demand, the Chinese are certain, at any risk, to meet it so long as the trade be sufficiently lugarities, and hence they defy both their own and the Colonial Authorities, and hope by cunning and audacity to put through their inhumane and unhallowed bargains. Kidnapping has long been extremely rife at Canton, although the penalty for the offence is decapitation; but the during scoundrels who engage in the business couningly count on the anathy and venality of the officials, who are, moreover, when honest, too hardworked he able to hestow much attention on this vila! traffic. "It seems that the crime is just as prevalent in the North as it is in Kwangtung. Indeed kidnapping has lately become so common that the Provincial Judge at observes that although the law decrees capital fire-crackers. panishment to the kidnapper the inhuman practice is still alarmingly prevalental Judge, considers the increase in the crime is due to the facilities offered to roques to carry off their prey by steamer to a foreign severely injured, and he was conveyed to the land or distant port where the friends of the Tung Wah Hospital. He died in that instituabducted can get no trace of them, and even the officials aree nowerless to bring them afternoon at the Mortuary. back. He goes on to say: -" The most offective way to gran these outriges would be temporary Iron there appears an article said to in favour of the Conservative party. The excitethey should, in conjunction with their comand if there should be any suspicious circumstances, such as a difference in dialect between the children and those in charge of their passengers, but when possible we feel sure they would be glad to co-operate in an attempt to check the shameful traffic in fish and blood. The plan su gested by the Provincial Judge may not perhaps be the crime of this nature. Moreover, the scheme is unobjectionable in this respect; it attempts no interference with the vessel; or its commander, and leaves it to the latter to use his discretion. There are few masters of foreign steamers, we take it, who lif it be within their power, would not rejoice to be able to render assistance in scotching a crime that is revolting to humanity, and the victims of which must claim their warmest sympathy. That desperate diseases require desperate remedies is an axiom the Chinese most fully endorse in their efforts to put down crime, and it must be admitted that i several kidnappers could in rapid succession be brought to the Execution Ground their fate would for a time have a repressive effect.

THE results of the Parliamentary elections now proceeding in the United Kingdom are being watched with keen interest by every Briton in the Par. East. Never in living morrory have the electors of the three kingdoms been called upon to decide upon so momentous an issue as that now placed before them, and having regard to the recent large extension of the franchise in the counries to the uneducated classes, the result of Mr. GLADSTONE's appeal is naturally awaited hy those at a distance from the scene with gravest anxiety. Under these circumstances it is tantalising and vexatious to find Reuter's telegraphic details of the results of the Messrs. Street & Co., 30 Corabill. elections so unreliable and contradictory. The Mindro also steamed ont on the same day for the builder's trial, when everything went most satisfactorily.

On the 25th June, at 5 a.m., while the British steamer Cicero, which arrived here on the 6th inst. was on her way from this port to Kutchinotzu, she observed, off Breaker Point, some men in the water. A boat was at once lowered and sent off in charge of the second officer, who found nine Chinese described as fishermen floating on some wreckage. They were picked up and brought on board the steamer. These men stated that their junk had been sunk by a collision on the previous night. The Cicero ran in for the shore and landed the unfortunate men at the Cape of Good Hope Lighthouse and proceeded on her course to Kutchinotzu. Two more evil doers have been materially decreased in stature at Kowloon City. These two men were accused of having boon concerned with another who evaded arrest in attacking some women on the road beyond Kowloon City, robbing them of every thing they possessed even to the garments they were wearing, outraging them and leaving them naked at the scene of the outrage, and as a culminating atrocity shooting one woman through the thigh with a revolver. They were convicted and sentenced to death by decapitation, and the sentence was carried out yesterday morning. A great number of Chinese were there to see the execution, and even a number of Europeans from Hongkong witnessed it. The execution ground was the same as on the similar occasion on the beach near the bamboo wharf, close to British territory. A large guard first marched on the ground preceded by men blowing load and deleful sounding blasts on some kind of musical instrument; then came bannermen and soldiers; afterwards came the criminals, two young men, brought in baskets, accompanied by a guard. As they passed each fortification three guns were fired, and on their arrival at the execution ground a volley was fired. They were then taken out of the baskets and made to kneel on the beach with their heads thrown forward, and as they did so one of the men was heard to declare his innocence of the crims charged against him. The execution r then made a out at one man's neck, but did not quite

IMPERIAL QUARTO. TINGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN

PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hougkoug. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous obliects in machinary, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive asture. Both the Court and Panti organizations are given the accents being osrafully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displaye the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vest economy of space, achieving a clearage not previously attained, and dispensing with those vest margins Agents for the Sale of their Goods in and vacant spaces which have heretofore charac-NENT, Glasgow, and Messrs.
